With world-class infrastructure that has grown in tandem with Dubai's rise in popularity as a global tourist destination, the world metropolis' dynamism and growth potential is unique and promising.

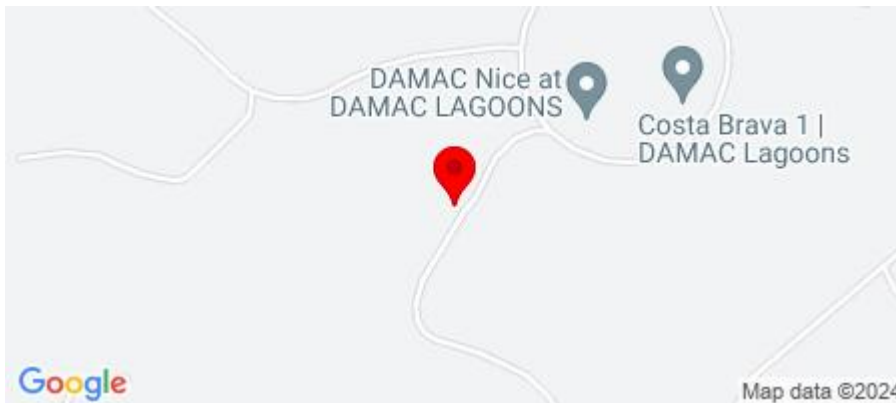

In particular, government-provided securities for real estate projects, granted residency visa options and the fact that Dubai does not levy income tax make the metropolis a highly attractive location for foreign investors.

Both the particularly high quality of life, the general security and the fantastic international connection with direct flights around the world speak for the location.
